

da Aleppo a Ferrara

A nighttime photograph of the Citadel of Aleppo in Syria. The citadel's stone walls and towers are illuminated with warm lights, standing out against the deep blue twilight sky. In the foreground, several tall palm trees are silhouetted against the sky, with their fronds catching some of the ambient light. The ground in front of the citadel is a paved plaza with some people walking, and streetlights are visible. The overall mood is serene and historical.
